

Appendix D. Sardinia Bay, Port Elizabeth. This area is the feeder zone for the Cape Recife headland-bypass dunefield that was artificially vegetated more than 100 years ago (Lord, Illenberger & McLachlan, 1985).

These dunes have been allowed to return to their natural mobile state. The sequence of events over the eight years from 2004 to 2012 is illustrated.

1/1/2004

N

Image © 2013 DigitalGlobe

©2010 Google

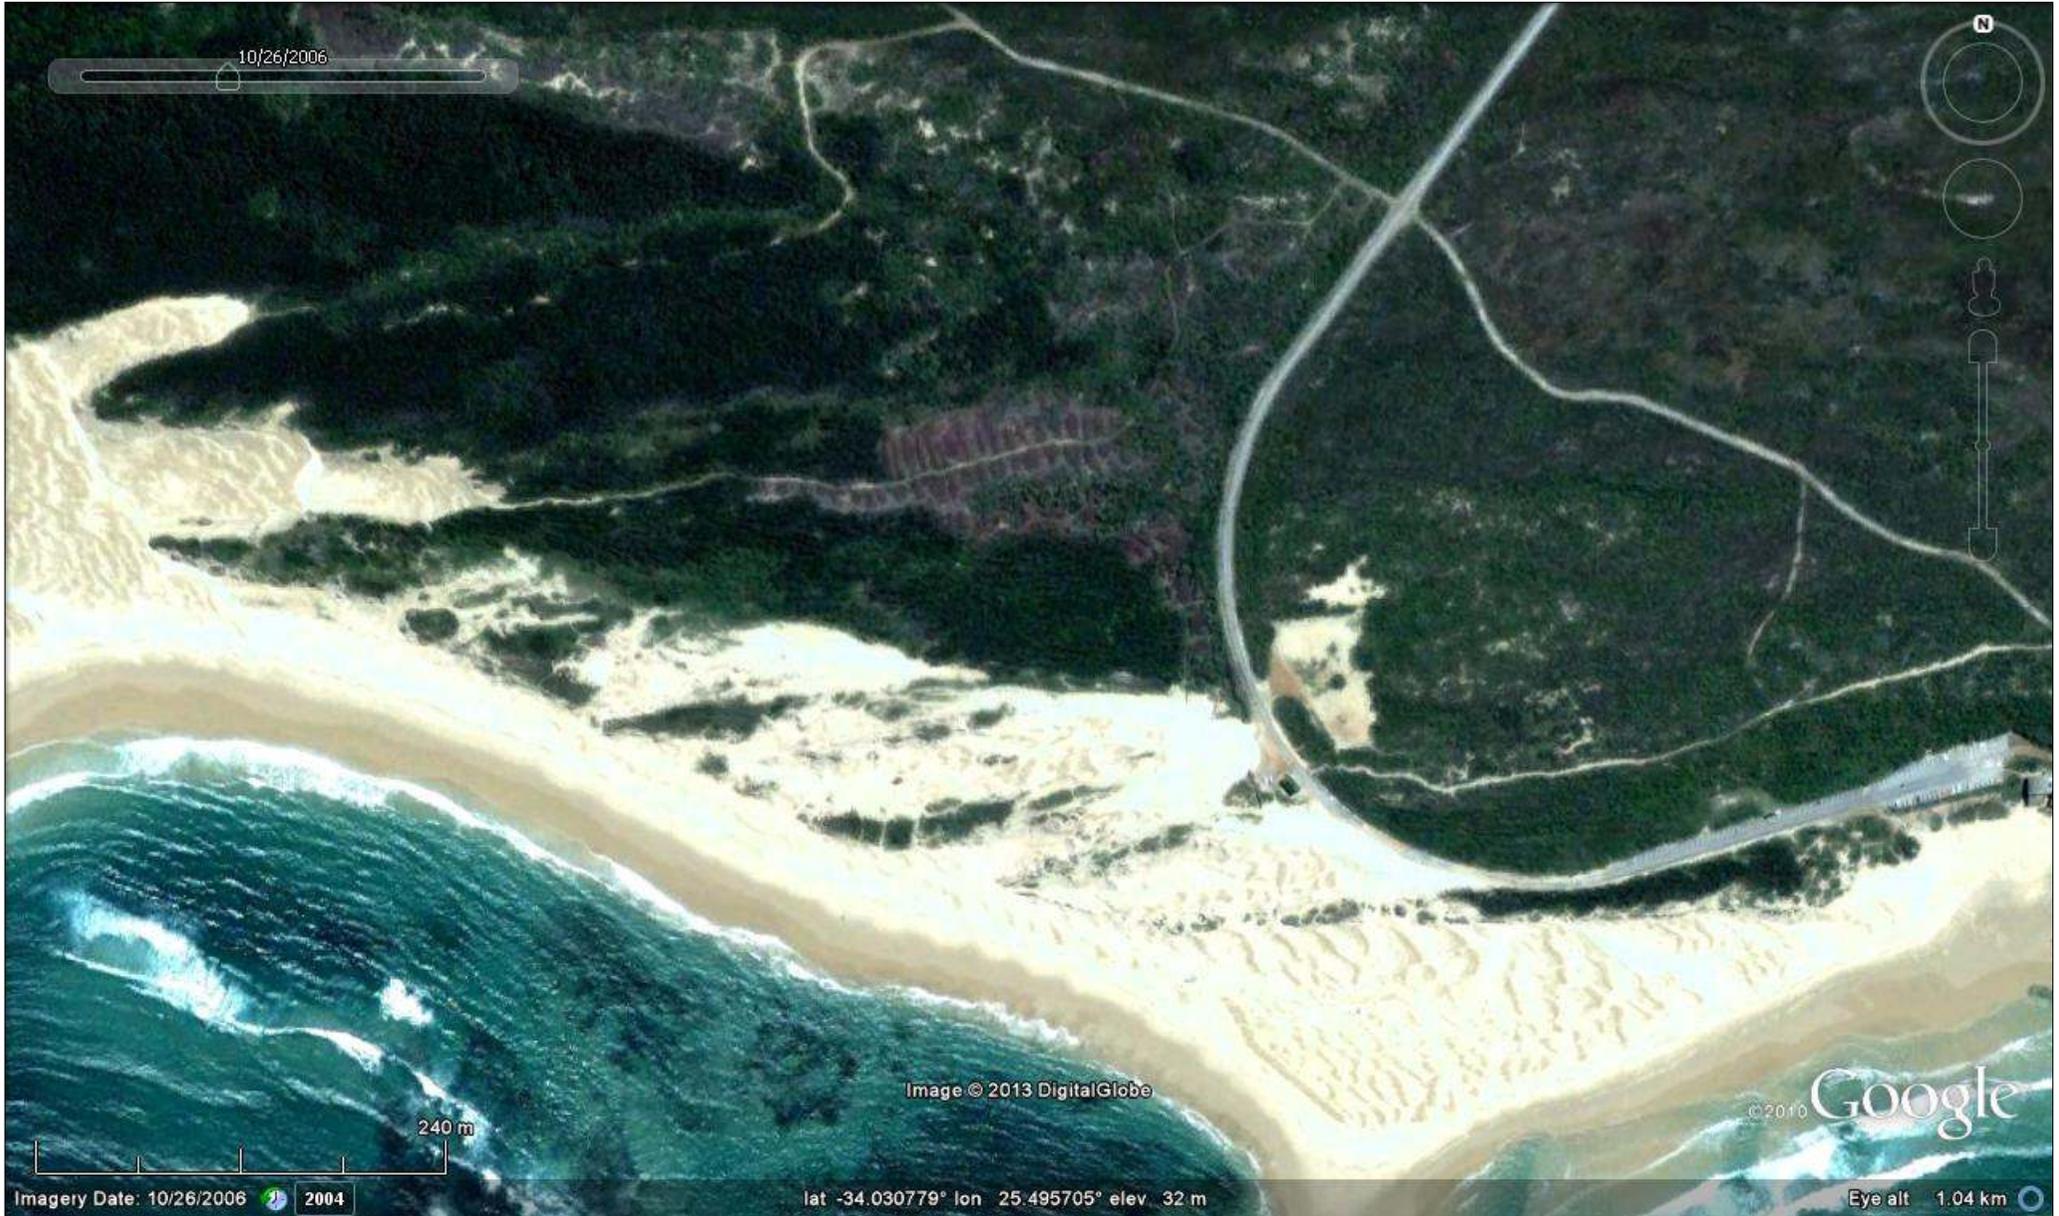

240 m

Imagery Date: 1/1/2004

2004

lat -34.030942° lon 25.495490° elev 33m

Eye alt 1.04 km

10/26/2006

Image © 2013 DigitalGlobe

©2010 Google

240 m

Imagery Date: 10/26/2006  2004

lat -34.030779° lon 25.495705° elev 32 m

Eye alt 1.04 km

10/8/2009

Image © 2013 GeoEye

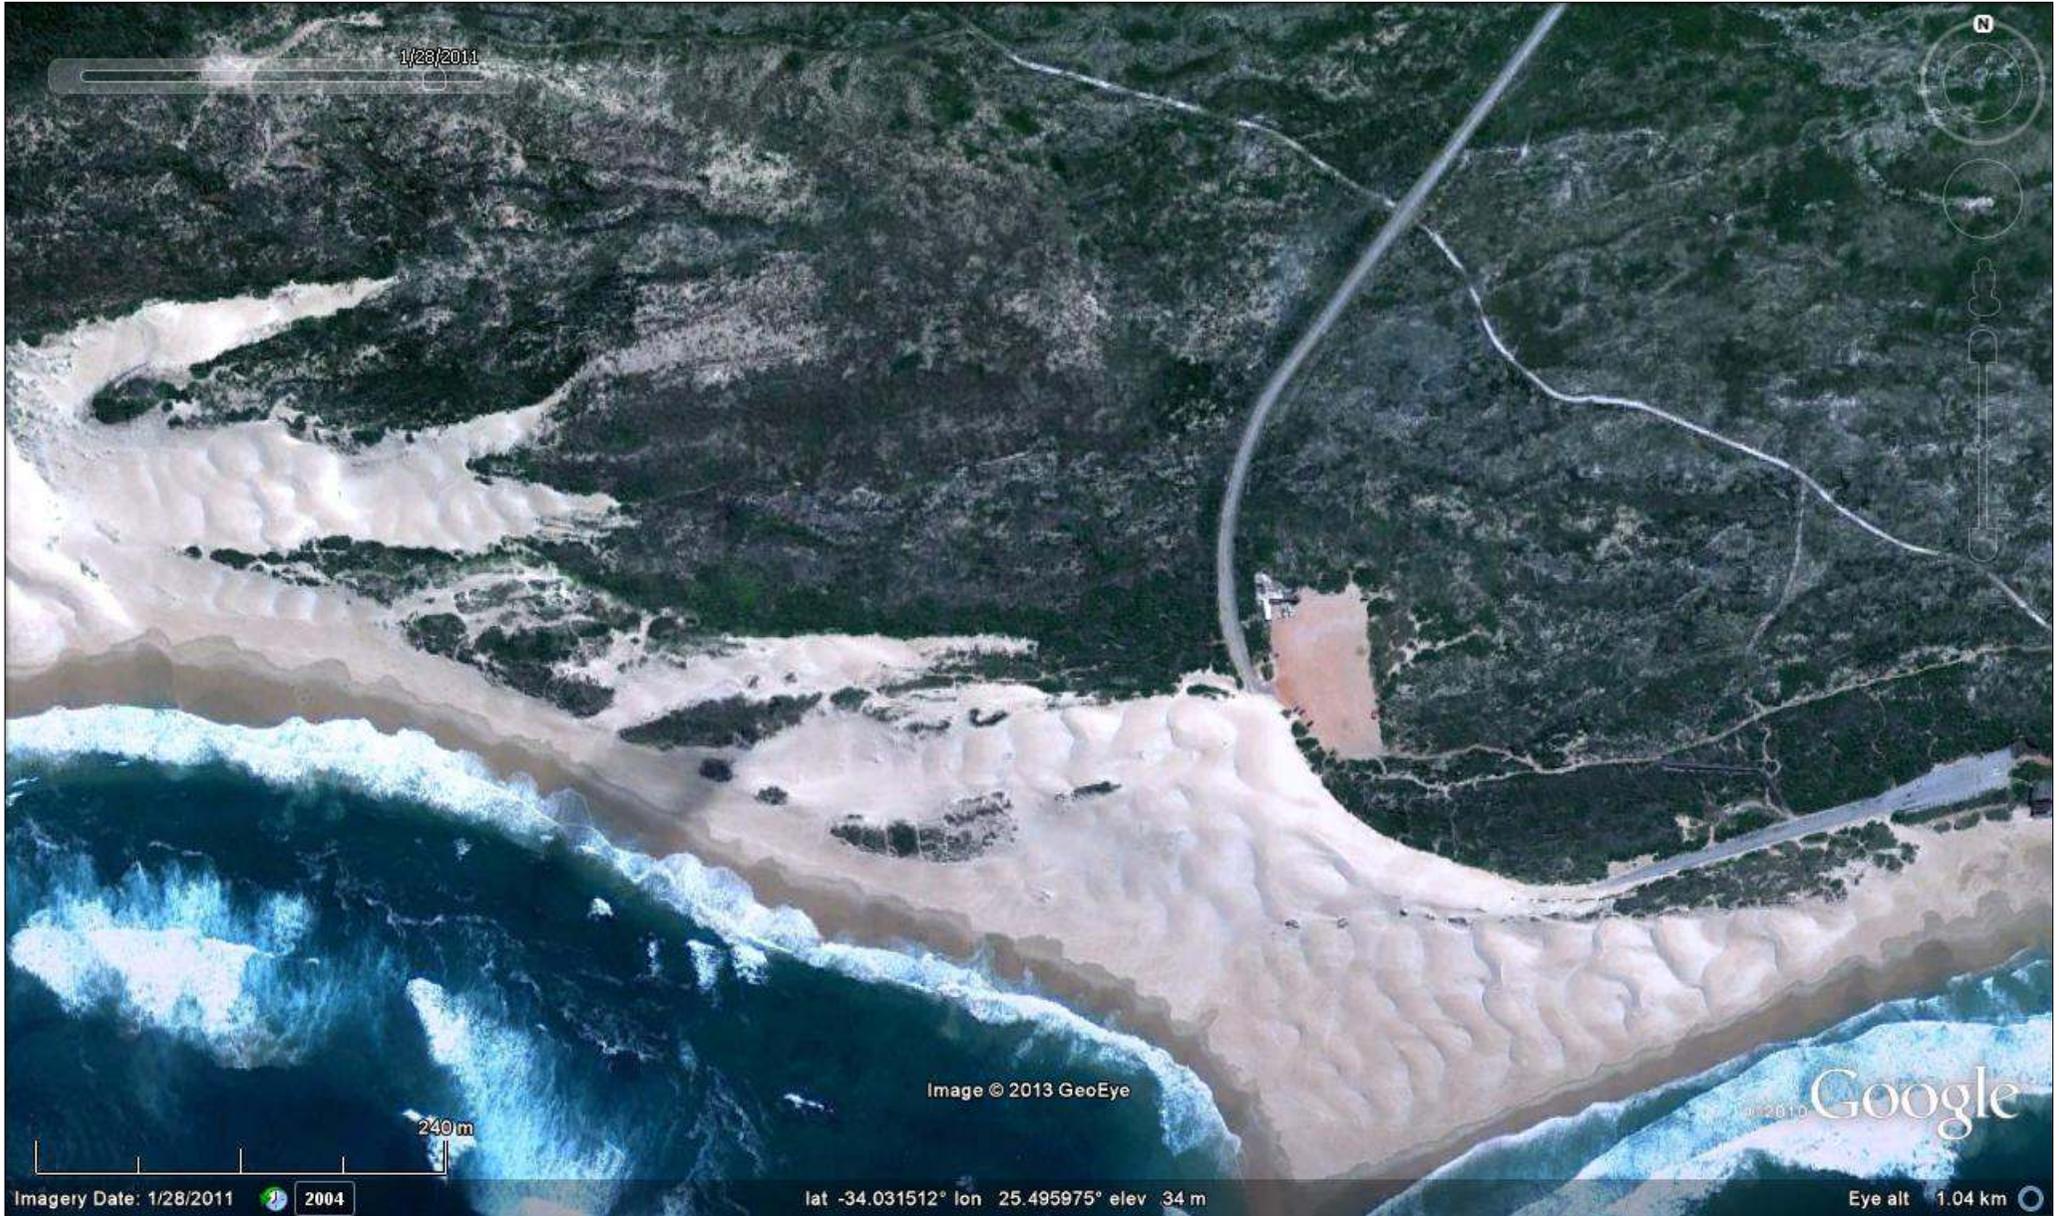

© 2010 Google

240 m

Imagery Date: 10/8/2009  2004

lat -34.031798° lon 25.494985° elev 32 m

Eye alt 1.04 km

1/28/2011

Image © 2013 GeoEye

Google

Imagery Date: 1/28/2011 2004

lat -34.031512° lon 25.495975° elev 34 m

Eye alt 1.04 km

240m

1/1/2012

Image © 2013 GeoEye

© 2010 Google

240 m

Imagery Date: 1/1/2012

2004

lat -34.031279° lon 25.496247° elev 34 m

Eye alt 1.04 km