Labour official granted bail after being arrested for corruption

Tintswalo Shipalana

The Department of Labour official who was arrested by the Hawks Serious Corruption Unit members, has been granted bail last week at the Tzaneen Magistrate Court.

Collin Mpenyane (28) was arrested on charges of corruption.

"He was granted a R2000 bail and his case has been remanded to June 6 for further investigations," said Captain Maluleke, Hawks Spokesperson.

The suspect was arrested after attempting to bribe a business owner.

The complainant, owns a construction company which is currently constructing a school in Xihoko Village at the Nwamitwa area, said Maluleke.

The suspect allegedly met with the complainant to discuss construction related issues.

He demanded R19 000 from the complainant in order to be issued with a certificate of compliance.

The amount was later reduced to R4 000.

The complainant reported the matter to the Hawks and a trap was set whereby the suspect was arrested immediately after receiving the money he had demanded from the complainant.

No bail for murder suspects

The four suspects arrested for the killing of a woman whose body was found 10 days after her disappearance were denied bail when they appeared in the Giyani Magistrate Court last week.

Daniel Dzambukeri (33), Christinah Mhlongo (53), Amos Chuma (48) and Solomon Mahumani (63) all residents of Nsavulani village near Giyani were remanded in police custody until Monday,

May 15 pending further investigations into the killing of Halayisani Precious

Hlongwane (26) from Hlomela village whose body was found in the village near Nsavulani after a joint search by the police and the community.

Police spokesperson, Lieutenant Colonel Moatshe Ngoepe said following Hlongwane's disappearance, members of the community went on a rampage burning four houses and damaging a car belonging to the people who were accused of being responsible for his disappearance.

Police investigations are continuing.

Drugs worth R58 000 found at Mokgoloboto village on Saturday

Nkhensani Nkhwashu

A 34 year old man was arrested for possession of drugs estimated at a street value of R58 000 at Mokgoloboto village on Saturday.

This follows a clean-up operation by the Ritavi Crime prevention, Politsi K9 Unit and the Tzaneen Cluster Crime Intelligence focusing on the mushrooming of drugs.

During the arrest the following drugs were recovered, 19 grams of cat, 12 units of cocaine and 102 grams of tick.

Police investigations are still continuing.

Police spokesperson, Lieutenant Colonel Moatshe Ngoepe, said the clean-up operations are still continuing until all the hotspot areas throughout this province are demolished.
