188	Agriculture	Yes		FGM 10/02/07 at 11:00			Contacted Jonel - Requested map and BID be emailed to him. He is in Germany, owns two farms in Steenbokpan area. Has appointed attorney - Deon van Dyk - to represent him. Concerns are when he bought the property he wasn't aware of the power lines and would not have bought property if he had known; power lines influence a buyer when wanting to buy property. 22/09/06 - e-mailed request for contact details and farm name. Met with JMB and JB At PBA in August re project. Obtained contact details from him. Jonel sent email to Deon on 25/10/06 to pick up comments at his office on 26/10/06. Received letter from attorneys on 27/11/06 refers: We are advised by our client that there is a further development with regard to power lines from Botswana and a substation or stations that need to be built. Kindly indicate if this is in fact correct? If so, could we receive all the information in this regard? we do not know if our client is an I&AP with regard this new power lines and/or substations. Jonel reply email on 01/12/06 stating all the proposed Eskom projects in the area and would forward the BID by post. Mr Wienke visited PBA Offices during this week to discuss these projects. Please do not hesitate to contact myself should you require any further information.			Lephalale 13.04.07

12	When looking at the maps, point number 1 shows the entry point for this study area. Can this entry point be moved south, towards Gaborone in Botswana and then enter South Africa in that area, instead of taking the lines through the Bushveld. This will solve the problems for the mines but not necessarily for the farmers. Why must property owners in this Lephalele area be penalised for power that is required in other places in the country? If the lines cross south (at Gaborone) and an additional substation is required, then the 3 x 400Kv lines from Matimba B Power station to Marang and Dinaledi Substations can be taken from this substation and they don't have to come from Matimba B. Pleas to see that Eskom is investigating the option of using 765kV lines instead of 400kV lines. A bit worried as at first meeting the indication was that 4 x 400kV lines would be used – this has now increased to 6 x 765kV lines – this needs to be confirmed. Farmers do not want to sell the servitudes to Eskom but want to rent them out for a monthly fee. Bush clearance must be contracted to farmers and not to outside contractors. The core source of income to the area will be destroyed and this will mean that there will be less work as farms will be lost. When trying to submit claim to Eskom, the proof has to come from the farmer. When Eskom phoned the contractor, the contractor said it wasn't him, so nobody is responsible and nothing happens. The property owner is in a very difficult situation - he did not want the lines in the first place and if something happens he does not get compensated.	Posted ESR on 18/01/07.	Posted 15/03/07

33	The map that shows all the projects relating to each other has reference. All the lines run in north-south direction, except the lines for Mmamabula, which run in west-east direction. If the lines run north, it is the shortest route to the border – only 40km, from Matimba B Power station. If the lines run west, the distance is 60km. Can the alternative please be investigated to take the lines north to Botswana and then run through Botswana to the Mmamabula Power Station. North of Matimba there are not that many game farms, most farms are under irrigation. The impact of the power lines on these farms will not be as big as the farmers can still continue with their farming activities. If South Africa has all the coal and can build the power stations why do we need Botswana and this project? If farmers in that area want to establish a forum, can they get all the contact details from the consultants regarding telephone numbers, etc. Issues/Comments Minutes -Received letter on 8/01/07 Re: Kommentaar Publieke vergadering gehou 22/11/06 te Steenbokpan - 1) Kommentaar oor notules: Ek het 3 ander belangrike punte gemaak wat nie genotuleer is nie. Contractors come onto properties without notifying owners, they leave gates open, game and cattle go astray. If a claim is then made at Eskom, it takes a couple of years for this claim to be settled at a value much lower than actual loss. The owner isn't going to take Eskom to court to dispute this value, to accept this offer and this is not right. Stated categorically that he does not want anymore lines on his property. Eskom has vast labour force to clean up after their employees, where he as individual farmer cannot do this. Eskom must do own sanitation cleanup when maintenance contractors come onto properties and not leave it to the owner to clean up. Also received map showing all the properties to be mined. Farm is game farm, overseas tourists, and eco-tourism. There is a ridge on the farm and the visual impact of the power lines will be devastating for business on the farm. The lodges are built on the ridge for the view of the area. Revenue from hunting will probably be reduced by some 80% and revenue from eco-tourism by about 100% and not sure how this will affect the value of the property itself. In terms of the lines – will it make a difference if the lines are in one corridor or spread out? Ridge is only ridge in area and is about 800m wide – the impact the power lines will have visually will be devastating on this area. Perhaps lines should be kept in corridor – for game management and catching.	Posted ESR on 18/01/07. 533	Will there be another set of meetings during the EIR Phase?The I&APs would like to see how their comments have been addressed in the reports before the reports are submitted to the authorities. Would like to thank colleagues for able and professional information as his point was going to include this information about the coal fields. He has information available on this fault line as well as on mining rights. The lines must be kept together without the 2km separation distance. This will have a very bad visual impact if more lines come in future. Keep lines together.	Posted ESR on 18/01/07.	Posted 15/03/07 Emailed 12/03/07

535	What about the crossing of lines over mining properties? Many of the properties in the area have mineral rights on them and the power lines cannot cross the mining areas? The Waterberg coalfield stretches into Botswana. Taking the power lines, as indicated on the maps, right across the coal fields Planning to build many power stations in the area and the properties will be mined for coal for these power stations. If the power lines are built over those properties, they will then have to be moved once the mining activities start. Is there information on how deep and thick the seam is? Have consultants looked at where exactly mining rights are especially the shallow mining?The lines must be kept together without the 2km separation distance. This will have a very bad visual impact if more lines come in future. Keep lines together. Keep lines as straight as possible and in corridor.	Posted ESR on 18/01/07. 536	Looking at the map with the study area the following applies:There is the "Eenzaamheid fault line" (Eenzaamheid verskuiwing) that stretches from Matimba Power Station to the Botswana border in a westerly direction. South of the fault line there is no coal and north is coal. There is also a second fault line – running north west – everything left of this fault line is shallow coal and north is deep coal. The shallow coal includes the two top river crossings as indicated on the map. These properties will be mined first and AngloGold has already applied and been granted mining permits to mine on these properties. This will be opencast mining. There are a number of smaller BEE Companies who have also applied for mining rights, which include Aquila Resources (have provided details to register them as I&AP).Use the Eenzaamheid fault line as an indication of where power lines can be put and where not. The information relating to the fault line is available from Mr Koekemoer. The farm Boompan is also earmarked for mining. The proposed power line is on this farm which is a no-go for power lines. 	Acknowledges frustration on the farmers side. Very important to have property owners and Eskom working together. Eskom appoints a contractor but Eskom is still responsible for the contractor and whatever happens. It is not acceptable to say that it is not Eskom's responsibility, but the contractors. You have the right to have the problem solved.

577	The visual impact that the lines will have on this area will be huge and will impact on the entire area, as this area is unique in its economic circumstances. Is high impact in one area better than lots of impacts in lots of places – corridor or not?
578	Is there information on how deep and thick the seam is? In terms of the lines – will it make a difference if the lines are in one corridor or spread out? How many game farmers use helicopters for game management, and game capture?
